CARRIER'S ADDRESS

TO THE

Patrons of the Altoona Tribune.

JANUARY, 1, 1859.

ANOTHER SPRING has warmed to life and bloom
The dormant, vernal bud;
And wafted on the air, of sweet perfume
A welcome, fragrant flood.

ANOTHER SUMMER, too, has cheered the heart
'Mid garden, orchard, field;
Where beauty, pleasure, hopes of gain, their part
Of Earth's enjoyments yield.

ANOTHER FALL has stored the golden grain,
And seared the flower and leaf;
Strewed Nature's beauty rustling o'er the plain,
While winds sighed Nature's grief.

ANOTHER WINTER, with his funeral tread,
Strikes roughly on the ear,
Like martial conqueror, to inter the dead—
The late departed year.

And as in snowy shroud he tombs the Past,
He chants its requiem with his howling blast.
And now the Carrier—agent of the Press,
Again presents you with his New Year's Address;
And standing on the grave of '58,
Prays '59 may bring us no worse fate;
But in the eternity of by-gone years,
May meet with blooming honors his compeers.
Kind Patrons of the TRIBUNE, then, we bid you hail!
A happy New Year! and could wishes but avail
To banish past regrets, or were the power mine
To furnish, in their stead, bright hopes for '59,
I'd have you entertain them; yea, and furthermore
To realize more joys than e'er you did before
In one short, flitting year; with goods of various kinds
Your garners shall be filled; with happiness your minds—
But stay: another year is past, and what's a year?
A snow-flake on the water which doth disappear
Ere scarce you've marked it, or a meteor in the night
Which burns an instant, and then vanishes from sight.
But yet, short, fleeting as it is, it leaves behind
Plain traces of its path, to teach the observant mind.
And what of '58? Ah! Patrons, happy we
Who in our favored land God's stately steppings see.
The learned, veteran Doctor, and the young Divine
Pause in their contests, and polemics they resign,
Eli's various meanings and Baptizo's roots
Drop from their memories and excite no more disputes.
But, Luther's followers, and Mr. Wesley's school,
They who obey their Elders—they whom Bishops rule,
They with coat-sleeves tight, and they with gown sleeves wide,
With neck-cloths white, and black in various manners tied,
Meet on a common platform, and with one accord,
Unite in prayer and praise to God, their common Lord.
The salesman leaves his counter, Artizans their shops.
And from his business cares the tho't-worn merchant stops
The lady leaves her parlor, the professional man
Evades a client's, patient's call as best he can;
The student leaves his books, the laborer his bed,
All daily to devote an hour in prayer to God.
The workman in his work attire, the millionaire,
Kneel by each other's side and offer up their prayer.
Till over the world, in lands of every name,
The American Revival spreads abroad its fame.
Aye! in the Holy Land, where once our Savior trod,
The traveller hears the tidings of this work of God.
And e'en within the enclosure of the Chinese wall
He hears of prayer-meetings held in Jaynes' Hall.
Great God! with mighty arm speed on thy work of grace
From cities to the towns, from towns through every place
Till all this wide spread land from Ocean's shore to shore
Shall own thy power and love, and serve thee evermore
Then till the globe itself shall roll up as a scroll,
Our country shall be prosperous, our Union whole.
Kansas bleeds no more! the rifle and the sword,
The cowardly assassin and the lawless horde
Of slavery agitates, who with base intent
Moved from Missouri homes and o'er the boundary went
To plot and execute their own unhallowed plans,
Of carrying ballot-boxes with their marshaled clans,
Have ceased from bloody riot and from civil strife,
And left the inhabitant secure in land and life.
With peace within her borders, and with equal laws
To invite the emigrants who favors freedom's cause,
Soon shall the growing hamlet, and the city great
Supply the population to become a State;
And many an enterprising honest son of toil
Shall rear a happy home upon her fertile soil.

Mormon Utah, too, the home of Brigham Young—
That most traitorous villain ever left unhung—
Utah, the promised land for fool and vicious knave,
Where woman is degraded to a helpless slave,
Where vice and crime and murder boldly stalk abroad,
And gentiles oft are butchered in the name of God,
Rebellious, sin-cursed Utah! she at last has learned
That war with Uncle Sam, for which her prophets yearned
That they, like Moses, might, by stretching out their hand
O'erwhelm the Gentile army that would touch their land—
That war is different now, from what it was of yore
When Joshua fought and conquered and—as ne'er before—
The Sun and Moon stood still obedient to his word
Till Israel's enemies should fall by Israel's sword.
The spell is broken and the deep delusion flod,
And Mormons now are ruled by one in Brigham's stead,
Whom Uncle Sam has sent invested with the might
To punish evil doers and protect the right.
And now ere long, we hope, this filthy, noisome sore
Upon the body politic shall gall no more,
But Utah be redeemed from vice of every name
And add a lustre to the escutcheon of our fame.
But, sirs, of all the deeds which '58 can boast,
The Atlantic Telegraph excited men the most.
The news of its success like ancient Pharoah's dream
Became a world-wide fact, a universal theme.
And Mr. Field, like Joseph, rose from low estate
To be a nation's favorite—a world's magnate.
Grave Reverends, too, were found, in Bible learning skilled
To trace out prophecies by this event fulfilled.
And striking scripture passages, full many a score,
Acquired a meaning now, that ne'er was known before.
E'en poetry and eloquence new impulse took, [book,
And thoughts then penned and said would read well in a
But like the beauteous thing which hovered in the air,
When yet our steps were light, our brows unstamped with care,
And from our soapy liquid, armed with pipe and bowl
We sent the gay globe bounding onward to its goal,
And watched its rainbow tints enraptured with delight
Until the bubble burst and vanished from our sight;
So with this "Triumph," too, "of science and of art"
It acted on a grander scale the bubble's part.
Kind Patrons, what is fame? 'tis like the flowing tide
That safely wafts the bather to the harbor's side;
Yet had the struggling swimmer met the ebbing wave
The end to greater skill had been a watery grave.
How near this Field had come, to live on History's page,
A prodigy of science—greatest of his age!
But failing of success, his acts, though still the same,
Nor bring him honor now, nor win him lasting fame.
But just as Cæsar, dead, was used to stop a hole,
Who, living, held an empire under his control;
So Cyrus Field, whose name was once on every tongue
Forgot, shall spend his days, and die at last unsung.

Congress again has met, although 'tis very true,
It matters little when they meet, for all they do.
But yet there is a care to all our country's friends,
That lasts from when their session opes, until it ends;
Like the anxiety which every mother knows
Whose wicked son sometimes his evil temper shows.
She keeps a constant watch, with fervent hopes that she May nothing unbecoming in his actions see.
[illegible] many a patriot hopes, as pale [illegible] o'er his face

That Congress our good fame may stain with its disgrace.
But yet so many bruisers—empty, brainless pates—
Are sent from this and that of the United States—
Fellows only fit to mingle in the ring
With Heenan and Tom Hyer—or some such other thing—
That really we are lucky if we do not hear
Of three or four fights in each Congressional year.
And yet these brainless morons still presume to claim
The title "Honorable" a prefix to their names!
Oh! shame where is thy blush? are these degenerate days
That tolerate the men who mingle in such frays?
Nay, let the Press speak out in terms of censure strong
And place these fighters in the grade where they belong.
But Patrons I must close; I wish not to distress
Your generous patience with the length of my address.
But yet a few words personally—bear me through—
My duty urges me to speak to each of you.
The Printers' task is hard, they labor day and night,
And at your ease you read what toiling they indite.
Do any of you owe them?—then begin the year
By promptly paying all you are indebted here.
Your bill is small, you say—why then so much the worse,
Each Patron says the same, you may be sure of course;
And that's the very reason why McCrum & Dern
Find so much trouble in collecting what they earn.
"Your bill is small," why then, the easier it is paid
And by the aggregate a good, round sum is made.
Then pay your Printers' Bills, and when you shuffle off
This mortal coil of yours, and all things earthly doff,
So shall you leave this world without a conscience vexed,
And one debt less you'll have to answer in the next.
But finally, my friends, I wish you all much joy,
And hope you're each a quarter for the

CARRIER BOY.

Select Story.

A CURE FOR LOVE.

Ellen Maclure, for some years, had held the situation of upper nurse at one of the private lunatic asylums in the suburbs of the metropolis. She was tall, graceful, and wherewithal good-to look upon: a number of suitors had at diferent times made overtures of matrimony to her, but were rejected; and it was not till after long intimacy that George Farrace, a porter in the establishment, ventured to sue for her hand, and was accepted.

For some time, George had noticed that when Ellen returned after her walks, either of pleasure or business, that her countenance wore an expression of anxiety, and at length resolved to question her upon the subject.

'My dear Ellen,' said he, addressing her one day, as she entered from the road, 'what can be the cause of that anxiety which I see depicted on your features every time you return to the house after a walk?'

'Oh, nothing,' replied Ellen shortly: 'what's the use of making a bother about nothing?'

'But I am sure it's more than nothing,' replied George, 'or it would not make you so unhappy.'

'Well, if I have a secret annoyance, it would be no use of telling you,' returned Ellen; you men only make more disturbance than is necessary.'

'But it may be in my power to remove your trouble for aught you know.'

'Well, never mind, I dare say it will soon end,' answered Ellen.

'But I think it a great want of confidence on your part,' returned George, 'not to tell me: for what brings you pain must necessarily make me unhappy.'

'I am sure, my dear George, it is far from my thoughts to cause you the slightest inquietude, but really the circumstance is so trivial a nature that it is scarcely worth mentioning, yet, at the same time, brings grief to me. Many girls would laugh, and think it capital sport.'

'Then tell me,' said George, earnestly.

'No.'

'Come—come.'

'Oh, don't tease me.'

'But I will, until I know what ails you.'

'Then you will wait some time.'

'I dont care,' said George, 'I am resolved to know.'

After a good deal of persuading, alternately mixed up with vows and sighs, Ellen informed him that for some time past an individual had been in the habit of annoying her with dishonorable proposals, whenever he met her in the streets, and that lately he had carried his impertinence so far, that she could not step outside the door without being subject to insult, as he was always on the watch for her.

'Oh, that's it,' said George, when she had finished.

'I really dread to go outside the door,' continued Ellen.

'Only let me catch him,' said George, 'and I'll tell him my mind upon the matter.'

'There,' cried Ellen, 'I thought you would go and make some dreadful disturbance.'

'Well,' said George, calmly.

'Who knows but that he may stab you, or do something worse?'

'Pooh! nonsense!' returned her lover.

'You know,' continued Ellen, 'there are a set of horrid fellows about that don't mind what they do, and are ready to perpetrate any villainy, even murder itself.'

'Stuff! Burke and Hare are not come back to life. Somebody has been frightening you.'

'Well, George, did you not read the horrid murder that was committed last week at——I forget where, where a jealous lover poisoned his fortunate rival, and after murdering fifteen of his relations, put a period to his own unhappy existence by marrying a very rich heiress and dying in her arms.'

'Surely, Ellen you don't give credence to such trash!' said George; 'if you do, I am sure you will become a candidate for one of our straight waistcoats.'

'Well, all that I know is, it is in print, and you can see it yourself.'

'That may be; but what has all this to do with preventing the individual you mention from annoying you?'

'If you must speak to him, for Heaven's sake do it mildly. Who knows what may happen if you are rash?' cried Ellen, fearful of a rupture between the two men.

'Oh, yes,' replied George, 'I'll use him tenderly enough. I have just thought of a plan.'

'What is it?'

'Why, it requires your concurrence to carry it into execution, and afterwards I'll lay any money that he does not trouble you again.'

'Let me hear it,' said Ellen.

'Well, then, the next time he annoys you, pretend to listen to his proposals, and bring him in here.'

'But as you will open the gate,' continued Ellen, 'he will see you.'

'Never mind that,' said George. 'You must let him suppose that I believe him to be a patient; there is one coming to-night or to-morrow morning, and we can easily mistake your tormentor for him, and take ample revenge for his behavior.'

'What would you do to him?'

'Hand him over to one of the keepers by mistake; get him shaved and put into a waistcoat if he's troublesome.'

'But what will be the consequence?' cried Ellen.

'You must say to me when you bring him in, 'This is the gentlemen Mr. Lucas spoke about.' He will not then suspect that I know anything about the matter, and when the trick is over, he will not take revenge upon a woman.'

'But he will complain to Dr. Millman, the proprietor of this establishment, and we shall lose our situations,' said Ellen in reply.

'Never mind that,' said George; 'I will run the risk of that. We must apologise for the mistake in the best way we are able. Nobody will suspect it otherwise. As for your tormentor, he will be too much ashamed to show his bald pate and acknowledge that he has been duped by a woman, while you will have ample satisfaction.'

'That will do,' said Ellen; 'but I am half afraid.'

'Courage—courage,' replied her lover.

'I am going to town this evening, and I have no doubt I shall see the fellow wating at the corner of the street'

'All right,' said George, rubbing his hands with delight at the thoughts of serving out his sweetheart's plauge.

'I'll see you before I go,' said Ellen, and retired to perform her daily duty in tending upon the numerous patients confined within the house.

When the occupation of the day was done, some business required the attendance of Ellen in town, and having prepared herself for walking, she set out.

Scacely had she proceeded beyond the precincts of the house before her tormentor, who was a major in the army, dressed in a military braided frock coat, made up to her.

'Good evening,' said he. 'By all that's lovely, I have been waiting here these three hours in the anxious expectation of seeing your beauteous self.'

'You need not have waited so long; I am sure you give yourself a vast deal too much trouble. Besides, I have no time to spare; I am in a hurry,' replied Ellen.

'Celestial being!' cried the major, attempting to take her hand, 'the trouble in seeking your enchanting society is the greatest happiness of my existence.'

'I beg you will desist, sir,' said Ellen, withdrawing her hand; 'those freedoms I dislike very much.'

'I swear never to cease to follow you until you promise to give me the pleasure of your company.'

'I cannot promise you any such thing,' said Ellen.

'Are you engaged to another?' asked the major.

'Yes.'

'I will not believe it,' said he impassionedly.

'I cannot help that,' said Ellen.

'And I will see you home.'

'You cannot.'

'But I will!' cried the major.

'Now I must beg you to leave me,' said Ellen, as she reached the house where she was going.

'Do you return to-night?'

'I do not think I shall,' replied Ellen, hoping he would leave her to return alone, and willing, if possible, to avoid the practical joke that George had determined to play him.

'I shall wait,' said the major, as Ellen left him.

Ellen delayed her visit as long as possible, and upon again coming into the street, saw the major waiting for her.

'Now, sir,' said she, 'I intend returning home, and wish to know once for all, if you are determined to continue to persecute me.'

'Lovely girl——'

'I do not want your company,' said Ellen.

'I will not live without you,' returned the major.

'Are you determined to follow me home?'

'I am, my angel. Cannot you admit me into the asylum, where I can have the pleasure of your sweet company to myself?'

'What do you think the people would say of me?' asked Ellen.

'I neither know nor care,' replied the major, 'so that I possess yourself.'

'Really, I think you are a fit candidate for the asylum,' responded Ellen, as she drew near home; 'will you leave me?'

'No; you must admit me. I know you could if you liked.'

'Well, then, if you will promise——'

'What? I will promise anything for your sake.'

'That you will do just as I tell you, to avoid suspicion.'

'I will.'

'Well, then,' replied Ellen, 'you are not totally indifferent to me, and I will grant you my company for the remainder of the evening.'

'Sweet girl!' cried the enraptured major, 'I know the god of love at last would move your heart to compassion.'

'But there will be some difficulty in getting you past the gate,' said Ellen.

'Why?'

'Because of the porter George!'

'Can't you frame some plan to get him from his post for a minute?'

'Let me think,' said Ellen, appearing to be wrapt in thought; 'let me see—yes, now I have it—there is a gentleman coming to the asylum to-night or to-morrow, and you must represent him.'

'I would represent the devil himself, if it were necessary, for an hour's pleasure in your company,' said the major.

'And when the porter opens the gate, you must throw yourself about as if insane. I will say 'this is the gentleman Mr. Lucas spoke about;' so he will let us pass without suspicion.'

'That's well planned, my charmer,' said the major, 'a woman is never at a loss for a scheme; but who is Mr. Lucas?'

'Only one of the medical attendants.'

'Very well.'

By this time they reached the asylum, and Ellen knocked at the gate.

'Who have you with you?' asked Geo., apparently unconscious of the affair, as he opened the gate.

'The gentleman Mr. Lucas spoke about,' replied Ellen; 'his malady is such that he is outrageous with everybody but a female.'

'Oh, indeed,' replied George, shutting the gate.

'You are a fine fellow—don't you think you are?' said the major to George, as he entered, and at the same time aping the aotics of a maniac.

'Very!' responded George, feigning to humor him.

'I'm King Nebuchadnezzar,' said the major.

'Indeed!'

'And was at the battle of Seringapatam.'

'Very happy to hear it.'

'Killed eleven thousand and a half with my own hand, and will fight you for a ha'p'orth of marbles. Can you knuckle down well? Now, my man, come on,' continued the major, pretending to throw off his coat as if about to fight.

'Come, come,' whispered Ellen; follow me!'

'On the wings of love!' returned the major, gallantly, wishing George to think that his quiet compliance to a female voice was a feature of his malady. None but the brave!—none but the brave!—none but the brave deserve the fair!'

'Now, come along, and don't make so much noise, King Nebuchadnezzar,' said Ellen, aloud.

'You don't think I want to waste my time talking to that poltroon, do you, my miracle of beauty?' whispered the major in her ear as he followed her.

'This way, if you please,' said Ellen, entering a small door; there, step in there, and dont stir for your life till I come,' she added, pushing him into a dark room.

'Are you going away?' demanded the major.

'For a minute.'

'For Heaven's sake be quick,' returned the major, or I will die of love before you return.'

'Hush—hush! for mercy's sake or some one will hear you,' replied Ellen, as she shut the door and fastened it outside, while she went to consult with George, as to the next step they were to take.

'What shall we do with him now?' asked she.

'Call the shaver, to be sure,' said George.

'He has a fine head of hair. 'Twill be a pity to cut it off,' replied Ellen.

'Oh, never mind that. There's many a fine head of hair been cut off here,' replied her lover. 'It will soon grow again.'

'Very well,' said Ellen; and she immediately went to inform the shaver of the establishment that there was a patient just come, who imagined himself Nebuchadnezzar, and was to have his head shaved.

'Very well,' replied the person addressed; and calling one of the keepers, they went with Ellen, who carried a light to the room where the major was sitting in the dark.

'Good evening, Nebuchadnezzar,' said the shaver, as he entered.

'Good evening,' said the major, willing to keep up the character he had assumed. 'I am always glad to see my subjects in good health.'

'I've come to shave your majesty's head,' returned the shaver, as pleasantly as he could.

'Eh!—what?' demanded the major, stretching his eys to their utmost limit, and at the same time forgetting his assumed character.

'Shave your majesty's head,' said the man.

'I'll be d——d if you do, then!' responded the captain, making for the door, and looking rather alarmed.

'It will be a practical lesson in humility for your subjects,' said the keeper, who was standing by.

'A practical lesson in d——n!' roared the major: 'and I will knock the first down that lays a finger on me.'

'Oh, very well, your majesty,' replied the keeper. 'If you will not take the last lesson quietly, we must adopt our usual plan, and make you.'

'Let me out!' roared the captain.

'You were not brought here for that.'

'Let me out, I say; or, I will call for assistance,' said the major.

'It's no use calling here—no one listens to a madman's voice.'

'But I tell you I am not mad.'

'Ha! ha!' replied the keeper. 'They all say so that came here, and believe themselves the most sensible people on earth.'

'But I tell you I am in my sound senses.'

'What were you brought here for?'

As the major could not well answer this question, he looked rather stupid.

'It is no use standing talking to him,' said George, who now entered. 'Why don't you shave him at once, according to orders? He's as mad as a Marth hare, and wanted to fight me at the gate just now for a ha'p'orth o' marbles.'

'Ha! ha! ha!' laughed all three, at the same time approaching the major, who, being desperate, and seeing himself in a predicament that he could scrcely account for, began to show fight in real earnest, as he was attempted to be seized by three powerful men.

'Hold him by the legs,' said the keeper.

'That's it,' replied the shaver.

'Get the waiscoat!' called George, 'while I hold his arms.'

'Cursed villains!' roared the major, with a tremendous oath, while he plunged and kicked violently; 'do you want to murder me? I'll make you pay for it.'

'Hold him tight,' said the keeper.

'Get him into the chair and strap him down,' said George.

'Put that arm into the waiscoat,' cried the keeper.

'That's it,' said one.

'All right!' said a second.

'And now you may kick as long as you like,' remarked the third, as they got the major on the floor, his legs strapped together, and his arms made fast and confined behind him by the strait-waistcoat.

'Now let's have him in the chair,' said the shaver; and immediately the unfortunate major was placed in the chair, and strapped down, while the shaver prepared to clip his luxurient curls.

After two or three attempts, he found it was impossible, for the major kept swearing and rolling about his head, as if he would shake it off his shoulders.

'Here, just hold his head,' said the shaver to his companions, and immediately they laid hold of their victim's ears, one on each side, while the shaver clipped off his glossy curls in a twinkling.

'I'll bring an action against you all,' groaned the major, in the anguish of his spirit.

'Oh, don't brother,' answered the shaver, as he lathered his head, and passing his razor over it, the noble major became as bald as a barber's block, grinning most horribly during the interesting process.

'He won't want these mustachios here,' continued the shaver, 'they had better come off; it will make him look three times more respectable—there!' he said, as he cut off his whiskers and shaved his upper lip—'Nebuchadnezzar was not half so respectable a looking chap as you.'

'Oh! oh! oh!' groaned the major, in the deep agony of his spirit, while his head hung upon his breast in the most abject despondency.

When the operation was finished, he was carried to a ward in another part of the building, and as he showed some resistance, was strapped down to an iron bedstead, where, after many fruitless endeavours to release himself from his unpleasant situation, and wearied out with exertion and mortification, he fell asleep.

On the following morning the principal of the establishment walked into the ward where the major lay with his head close shaven, and to whom the latter bitterly complained of the treatment he had received.

'Hush! hush!' replied the doctor; 'don't distress yourself—you will be better by and by.'

'But I tell you, sir, there is some mistake.—I am not the individual you take me to be.'

'I know it, my good man,' replied the doctor, soothingly, willing to humor what he considered some particular whim of the maniac's.

'I tell you, sir, that I am Major ——, of his Majesty's service.'

'Nothing more likely,' replied the doctor, than for gentlemen in your unhappy condition to fancy themselves somebody else.'

'He said he was Nebuchadnezzar, last night, sir,' said the keeper, who was standing by.

'Poor fellow,' returned the doctor; 'see that he is kept very low after I have bled him.'

'Merciful God!' exclaimed the major, 'you surely do not intend what you say?'

'Hush! hush! be tranquil; you are now in a high fever. I will visit you in half an hour,' replied the doctor, as he deliberately left the room, leaving the major to speculate on the benefit he might derive from his next visit.

The doctor had scarcely left the ward when the mad maniac appeared, led in by Mr. Lucas himself, who had brought him in a coach.

'Here is surely some mistake,' said Dr. Millman, 'for I conjectured the patient you were to introduce to me was brought here last evening, and now lying up stairs, where he has commenced his course of treatment.'

'This is the individual I alluded to,' said Mr. Lucas. 'There is something that requires explanation.'

'Come up stairs into the ward, and perhaps you may know the gentleman when you have seen him; it may unravel this seeming mystery,' said the doctor.

Having secured the right maniac, they both went to the place where the major lay.

'This is the gentleman,' said Dr. Millman, pointing to the bed. 'Do you know him?'

'I have not the most distant knowledge of him,' replied the other.

'Have you any friends?' asked the doctor of the major.

'Plenty,' replied the other.

'How came you here? Who brought you?'

'No one.'

'You came alone?'

'Yes.'

'How did you gain admittance?'

'I came with—that is I—came by mistake,' at length stammered the major, ashamed, and unwilling to publish his own folly.

'Here is something very wrong,' said the doctor; 'and before I part with you, I must make inquiries.'

'For God's sake, release me,' piteously ejaculated the major, 'from the straight waistcoat'

'When I have sufficient proof of your sanity, I will,' replied the doctor, 'and am convinced that you have not escaped from some other asylum. Where do your friends reside?'

'I live with my wife and family at 17, —— square,' returned the major with a sigh.

'I will make every inquiry,' returned the doctor, and upon applying to George, the porter, the latter did not hesitate to state, that the major came up with another individual in a coach.

As this did not unravel the plot, the doctor sent George to 17, ——square, where he found the major's wife in the greatest alarm at her husband's absence, and upon his informing her where he was, she immediately set out in search of him. Upon arriving at the asylum, she found her husband in the state described, and was equally at a loss to discover by what means he contrived to get into such a scrape.

'Are you quite sure, my dear madam,' asked the doctor, 'that this is your husband?'

'Quite.'

'And are you convinced that he is of sound mind?'

'He was so yesterday,' said the lady, 'tho' I have doubts of it now.'

'What could induce him to come here?'

'I really cannot say, unless some mad freak has taken possession of his brain.'

'My dear wife,' exclaimed the major, 'I am in my perfect senses, and will tell you all.'

'Then let's hear this strange affair,' said the doctor.

'Not now—not now,' replied the major; 'for God's sake, release me.'

'Upon the testimony of your wife, that you are of sound mind, I will release you,' returned the doctor; 'but I will not be answerable for the treatment you have met with at my servants' hands, unless you state frankly what brought you here, as it remains with you to explain it. Release the gentleman,' he continued, to an attendant.

The major was then released, and upon rising from the bed, shook himself like a large Newfoundland dog, to ascertain if he still had the use of his limbs. Upon dressing himself he placed his hat upon his bald pate, and offering his arm to his wife, departed from the asylum, breathing a volume of anathemas against the treachery of women, and went home to explain the circumstance to his wife in the best manner he was able.

Among his acquaintance the major trumped up some story to account for the loss of his hair, but our friend Ellen never saw him in the vicinity of the asylum again.

AWFUL.—The editor of The Jackson Mississippian thus welcomes Senator Douglas to the South:—

"Covered with the odium of such detestable heresies—stained with the dishonor of a treachery without a parallel in the political history of the country—fresh from the warm embraces of Seward and Greely and Giddings—this man has dared to present himself in the South, to look her honest sons and daughters in the face, and to ask their hospitality. We would not arouse the violent passions of men. We would stay the avenging rod of justice rather than the chivalry of the South should be tarnished by a single rash or unseemly act; but yet, if smarting under the keen sense of cruel wrong—if goaded by the conviction of outrageous justice, she were to welcome her betrayer 'with bloody hands to the hospitable grave'—the gibbet or the faggot—there would be a strong array of irresistable facts in the case to extenuate the act."

MEXICAN EXECUTIONS.—Before a prisoner is executed, in Mexico, he is put in the Cadilla, which is thus described:—"About forty-eight hours before a criminal is to be executed, he is sloistered with spiritual advisers in a small chapel. He is beset by the worthy advisers, who, by a well regulated system of relays, keep at him, urging him to implore forgiveness, and give himself up to God. In order to inspire the doomed with the liveliest sensation of fear, a death bell is kept tolling in the same apartment with him. In this way he is kept in the duty of preparing for death, until a short time before the fatal hour. He is then allowed some refreshment, and again forced to resume his preparations, until blindfolded and marched forth to the place of execution, to which last point the ceaseless noise of the muffled bell and the exhortations of the padre confessor pursue him.

EIGHT CHILDREN AT A BIRTH—EGYPT AGAINST ALL CREATION.—About five months since the wife of Jacob Abbott, living ten miles west of Golconda, in Pope county, presented her husband with eight pledges of affection at one birth! Four of these children survived until some six weeks scince, when two of them sickened and died.—The remaining two are still living and thriving finely. The whole eight were very small specimens of humanity when ushered into this world, as might have been expected. This statement is liter-ally true; it is vouched for by numbers of respectable witnesses who saw the four living children. Egypt is a very prolific country—a little to much so, sometimes.—Cairo Gazette.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL.—We have made arrangements with an excellent letter writer, now at the Capitol, whereby we shall receive a weekly letter, containing all matters of interest to the people of this locality, which may transpires, up to the latest hour previous to our going to press.

The Tonnage Tax—No. 2.

We are pleased to see that our recent articles upon this important subject are attracting a large share of attention among our contemporaries. The Pittsburgh Post—that ajax of Democracy in Western Pennsylvania, whose bold stand against the "foul fiend" of repudiation in Allegheny county, has placed it in the front ranks of the press in this country—publishes our first article in full, a course followed by our spirited neighbor of the Tyrone Star, and also by that valuable journal, the Blairsville Record. There have probably been other cases of this kind, but those cited, which have come under our immediate notice, are amply sufficient to show that the people are at last awakening to a just sense of the injurious character of the measure. Nor can we wonder at the wide circulation given to that article. Its contents were certainly of such a nature as to arrest the attention of the most unobserving. We therein advanced, and as we think, fully established, beyond the reach of successful controversy, the following propositions:—

1st. That the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company, so far from paying the Tonnage Tax, did not, in reality, contribute one cent towards it.

2d. That the entire amount of this impost was levied and collected—in addition to the regular charges for transportation—from Local shippers, the Rail Road Company performing only the part of Collector in abstracting from our pockets, to hand over to the State, the amount necessary to fulfill the requirements of the law.

These facts being admitted, and we challenge any party to gainsay their correctness, it follows that the question of repeal is one in which the Rail Road Company is not directly interested in a pecuniary point of view. Is is only to those who have the tax to pay, that it appeals with overwhelming force; and beyond the shadow of a doubt, our readers, it is you, and you alone who do this.

We have often wondered why the people of this portion of the State have so long and so patiently consented to dole out to the Public Treasury a quarter of a million per annum over and above the regular taxes imposed upon them in common with their fellow citizens of other parts of the State, and upon no other hypothesis can we account for this remarkable fact than that of a total misapprehension, on their part, of the practical operations of this measure. Certain are we, that an attempt to secure by a direct tax what is here obtained by indirect means, would be resisted to the bitter end. There may be a distinction, but the difference can be but small, between advancing the cash, and paying an enhanced price, equal in amount, on our purchases, and yet the whole matter stands precisely in this shape. Under these circumstances, can there be any doubt as to the propriety of the repeal? For our part we must confess that we can see no two sides to the question. To us it appears self-evident that our best interests must inevitably be promoted by such action.

Indeed we have heard but one objection urged in this quarter against immediate repeal, viz:—that we have no satisfactory guarantee that if the Tonnage Tax was abolished, the Rail Road Company would give to the local trade full advantage of the act. This we admit is an important point, and must not be overlooked. Anxious as we are to be relieved from a tax at once unjust and oppressive, we are no less unwilling that the same should continue to be collected, only to be retained in the coffers of the Rail Road Company, instead of reaching the Public Treasury, as at present. If we are compelled, for a time, still further to bear an extra share of the State's burdens, let our sacrifices at least enrich the good old Commonwealth to which we are all so much indebted.

But we have a suggestion to make that will, if adopted, remove the serious objection refered to, it is this:—let "assurance be made doubly sure," by inserting a clause in the bill providing that if the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company will reduce their present charges on all shipments of Local freight, an amount fully equal to the Tonnage Tax thereon, then, and in that case only, the Tax to be repealed, otherwise, the act to be null and void. Such a course would effectually guard against all deception on this point. There could be no doubt then but what the entire benefit of the repeal would revert directly to the local trade.

We respectfully ask our brethren of the Press to give their attention to this suggestion, satisfied as we are, that it needs only to be understood to meet their universal approval.

Our Legislature is now in session, and to it must we look for action. We trust that those representing constituencies directly interested in this matter, will see to it that their fellow members fully understand the question and that it is properly pressed upon their attention. Petitions should at once be put in circulation and such an expression of public opinion made as will be heard in the Halls of Legislation. Let us appear before the Legislature with a simple, yet earnest request that we be relieved from an unjust discrimination against us, and placed on an equality with other portions of the State. To doubt that prompt and favorable action would follow such an appeal, would be to deny to our Legislators all sense of justice, and to attribute to them a total disregard of the equal rights of their fellow citizens, an estimate of their character we are by no means prepared to adopt. On the contrary, we firmly believe, were the case so presented to them, their course would be such as to fully justify the confidence reposed, and commend them to the friends of just and equal taxation throughout the State.

Contested Seat at Harrisburg.

We are informed by Mr. Hall, of this place, that Mr. Proudfoot, the People's candidate for Representative, in Cambria county, at the last fall's election, is contesting the seat of Mr. Porter, who got the certificate, on the ground of the fraudulent vote returned as having been cast for Porter in Washington township. By throwing the vote of that township out, Mr. Proudfoot is elected. If the Legislature take the same view of the matter that Judge Taylor did, and we can not see how any honest man, viewing the facts without prejudice, can fail to do so, they will send Mr. Porter home and admit Mr. Proudfoot, who unquestionably received the majority of legal votes cast in Cambria county, last October. Let this fraud be laid open to the bone. Whether Mr. Porter had anything to do with it or not, and we by no means say he had, he is not entitled to retain his seat and should not be permitted to, if elected by fraudulent votes. We believe Mr. Porter resides in Washington township, the seat of the iniquity.

STATE TREASURER.—In the distribution of the different officers by the House of Representatives at Harrisburg, this portion of the State received nothing. We before remarked that the interior counties of the State gave a larger increased vote for the People's candidates, at the late election, than any other part of it, in proportion to the vote cast. Why they should have been treated so shabbily we can not see. The Legislature can, however, make this all right, if they elect WM. M. LLOYD, of this county, State Treasurer. What particular claims Union County, which has been backsliding into the hands of Locofocoism gradually, for several years past, can have or present for this office, are to us unknown. In point of capacity, honesty and popularity, MR. LLOYD stands at least equal to any gentleman named for this post. We again say we hope that the Legislature will overlook the "outside pressure," and as an act of justice and reward of merit, make him our next State Treasurer.

☞ We will publish some extracts from the Governor's Message, next week.

☞ We must confess that we were considerably disappointed in our expectations in regard to the result of the election for Speaker of the House of Representatives. We felt confident that Col. McClure would be the man, and the close vote in caucus shows that we had good reason to predict his selection. Nothing but the weighty outside pressure which was brought to bear against him on the eve of the caucus, turned the scales against him. The Speaker elect, W. C. A. Lawrence, is a young man of more than ordinary ability and experience for one of his age, and will make a popular presiding officer. We have no fault to find against him, although our sympathies were all with his competitor, on the score of "auld acquaintance." In the Senate, Hon. John Cresswell, of this county, whose name we mentiontd in connection with the post of Speaker, was the successful aspirant, and we predict that he will make a capital officer. If the House did act ungratefully towards the meritorious applicants from "Little Blair" for different positions, such as Sergeant-at-Arms and Assistant, Transcribing Clerks, &c., we are pleased to know that the Senate recognizes her claims and gives her two officers.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—An important decision has just been pronounced by Judge Davis, in the Supreme Court, in New York City, in an action brought by Mr. Isaac Sherman against the American Express Company, to recover the price of a number of Michigan State Bonds, which were lost by the Company while carrying them from Buffalo to Detroit.—The Judge decided that the Company is a common carrier, and must accordingly pay for the Bonds. It appears to us that this decision is as truly in the interest of the defendant as in that of the plaintiff.—If it should be settled that express companies are not answerable for goods left with them for transportation, their business would at once suffer a serious diminution. Their profits depend on the public belief in their responsibility.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—We learn from the Baltimore Patriot that on Wednesday afternoon last, as an engine and tender was running down the North Central Railroad, while passing a curve near Melvale station, the engineer observed a man upon the track a short distance ahead. The whistle was sounded and the engine reversed. The man paid no attention to the signal and the engine could not be stopped until it had passed over him. On examination afterwards, it was ascertained from cards in his possession that his name was M. Preuss, and that he was deaf and dumb.

CHANGED HANDS.—We learn from the Patriot and Union of Tuesday, that the office of the Pennsylvanian has been purchased by Dr. Morwitz, who also owns the leading German paper of Philadelphia.—Hon. Nimrod Strickland, a gentleman well known to the Democracy of this State, will have charge of the editorial department.

DOUGLAS RE-ELECTED.—Both Houses of the Legislature of Illinois met in joint convention, on the 5th inst., and elected Stephen A. Douglas United States Senator by the following vote:—Douglas 54, Lincoln 46.

☞ Lieut. Gen. Winfield Scott, U. S. A. has been elected an honorary member of the Sons of Malta.

☞ The hunters say that the muskrats have built their houses high and thin this year—a certain sigh of a mild and open winter.

☞ Mrs. Earl Rathburn, of St. Louis, has sued William Flukes for biting off the tail of her pet spaniel. She lays the damage at $20.

☞ It is stated as a curious fact that more money is expended annually in the United States for cigars, than is expended for all the common schools in the Union.

☞ Bets to a large amount have already been made in New York that Douglas will be elected President in 1860. His friends are willing, in some cases, to give odds.

☞ Mr. A. W. Thornton of Middletown, Bucks county, Pa., recently sold three turkies to N. K. Shoemaker, of the Wm. Penn Hotel, Philadelphia, for $60. One gobbler weighed 42 lbs.; one spring gobbler 28 lbs.; and one hen 24 lbs.

☞ Counterfeiting in Prussia.—A cross on the face of Prussian bank notes is printed some fifty times, in very small type, the penalty for counterfeiting which, is from five to fifteen years imprisonment—so that convicted counterfeiters cannot plead ignorance of the law.

☞ A laborer named James Doe, of Hardingham, Norfolk, England, lately lost his life, in endeavoring to eat a pound of raw sausages in two minutes. He had nearly accomplished the filthy feat, when the last sausage stuck in his throat, and caused his death.

☞ Mr Cockeill, a Tennessee farmer, proposes to show five sheep, three ewes and two bucks, from his flock, against the same number from any other flocks, for $2,000 a side, at Nashville, on the second Wednesday in May, 1860. Also, to compete with two blood horses against all the trotting horses in the world.—Camels and dromedaries are also to compete. He wishes, also, to test the relative value of camels and dromedaries, compared with mules, at the same time.

☞ The penalties to which the importers, sellers and purchasers of the newly stolen slaves, lately brought into Georgia, are liable under United States law, are: For importing the negroes, or abetting in it, the law imposes a fine of not more than $10,000 nor less than $1,000 for each negro, and imprisonment not more than seven nor less than three years.—Whoever purchases or sells one of these slaves after they are introduced, is subject to a fine of $1,000, or imprisonment till it is paid.

LETTER FROM HARRISBURG.

HARRISBURG, January 11, 1859.

GENTLEMEN:—Your omission, last week, has left you so far on the background, that I doubt the propriety of giving you a full detail of the organization of both Houses, since it is more than probable that a majority of your readers are already booked up.

The Senate organized on Tuesday of last week, by the election of your Senator, Col. Jno. Cresswell, as Speaker; W. H. Miller, as Clerk; and F. M. Hutchison, as Assistant. On Wednesday, Maj. Snyder, of your county, was elected Sergeant-at-Arms.

The House was organized on the same day, by the election of W. C. A. Lawrence, of Dauphin, as Speaker. The contest between him and Col. McClure was a most animated one, and would not have resulted as it did, had not Gen. Cameron, and one or two other prominent men in the party, thrown the entire weight of their political influence into the scale in favor of Lawrence. The election of Clerk resulted in the choice of S. J. Ren, of Philadelphia. This was the result of a commercial transaction on the part of the Philadelphia delegation. Judson Holcomb, of Bradford, was elected Assistant.—He was an aspirant for the Chief Clerkship, and only defeated in caucus by four votes. The greater part of last week was spent—that is, between meeting hours—in caucusing by the opposition; and at the time I write all the officers are not yet elected, although in nomination—which is equivalent.

There were five applicants for minor positions from Blair county—and all unsuccessful. This was not the fault of Mr. Burley, who done his best to get a position for at least one of his neighbors, but he scorned to secure such an end by any kind of bargain and sale. Was be not right?

The Governor's Message is highly spoken of by all parties, save the ultra Lecomptonites, and the Reports of Heads of Departments are satisfactory, showing the good old Commonwealth to be in a sound and prosperous condition.

The office question settled in the House, the next agitation will be on the State Treasurer. There are so many aspirants that it is a risk to venture an opinion as to who has the inside track. If Mr. Lloyd wishes to make any headway, he had better be here in person. It is a very nice arrangement to have one's friends to work, but I maintain that there is nothing like being "on hand." Taggart, Slifer, Struthers, Sowther, Henderson, Power and Jones are here, and all working like bearers. It is hardly necessary for me to assure you that the office is a bone worth picking, and consequently worth contending for.

In the way of Legislation, nothing has yet been done of a local nature, and in fact not much of a general nature that would interest your readers. A bill was passed in the House, last week, for the abolition of the Canal Board, which came up in the Senate yesterday and gave rise to a lengthy debate. There are still some claims to pass. To-day Mr. Frazer will take his seat in the Board, where he will remain until the Senate takes final action on the bill, which will be in a few days at furthest.

Bills for the passage of a general Banking Law have been introduced in both Houses, but neither will pass—nor in fact any Banking Law. There will be no tinkering the currency this session.

In the Senate to-day, the bill passed by the House for the abolition of the Canal Board, was taken up, and after considerable debate it was referred to the Committee on Finance. This will give the Board a chance to examine some claims still pending. In the meantime, Frazer has taken his seat, and it is now doubted whether they will be legislated out of office much before the session ends.

The House was taken up pretty much all day in selecting a committee on the contested seat of Mr. McClain, of Philadelphia. The case of Mr. Porter, whose seat is contested by Mr. Proudfoot, of Cambria, will come up on Thursday next.

LOGAN.

THE STATE SENTINEL.—We have received the first and second copies of this new paper started at Harrisburg on the 1st inst. It makes a very creditable appearance, and is edited with more than ordinary ability. It supports true Democratic principles—those upheld by Douglas, Forney and Gov. Packer, on the slavery question—if the other side can really be called Democratic. The new paper is bound to prosper, for a time at least. We wish the proprietors abundant pecuniary success.

☞ The past and the future are alike shrouded from us—the one wears the widow's veil, and the other the virgin's.

☞ A gentleman being called upon for a speech after dinner, said: "I am too full for utterance."

☞ Whoever is honest, generous, courteous, and candid, is a gentleman, whether he be learned, or unlearned, rich or poor.

☞ Hast thou riches? Hast thou beauty? Hast thou dower? Be careful not to provoke the giver by abusing the gifts.

☞ If a man is not tall at twenty, handsome at thirty, wise at forty, and rich at fifty, he will never be tall, handsome, wise, or rich.

☞ Why is an unwelcome visitor like a shady tree? Because we are glad when he leaves.

☞ A Dutchman's heart-rending soliloquy is described thus: "She lofes Shon Mickle as much petter as I, because he's got koople dollars more as I has!"

☞ Gentlemen Paupers.—Some men are proud of being paupers; proud of being gentlemen who do nothing—proud of being maintained by the public—by their relations—or by their wives.

☞ Why will America's emblem outlive those of England, France, Ireland, and Scotland? Because the rose must fade—the lily droop—the shamrock die—the thistle wither, but the stars are eternal.

☞ A few days ago, the wife of a farmer residing near Shippensburg, Pa., hearing the dogs barking violently, went out, and found them worrying a large buck. She took a knife, and seizing the buck by the antlers, cut his throat.

☞ Terrible Catastrophe.—On Friday last, a railroad train, containing about 50 persons, was precipitated into a creek, near Columbus, Ga., by the breaking of a bridge, and about 18 persons were either killed by the fall or drowned.

☞ Tall Shooting.—Mr. James T. Imlay of West Brownsville, on Christmas day, put eight rifle balls, out of nine shots, off-hand at twenty-five yards, within a ring exactly the circumference of a silver dollar, and four of which would have struck a house-fly standing in the centre of this tiny mark.

☞ The following paragraph is said to be from the book of Mormon. Evidently Brigham Young practices upon it: "Blessed is he who bloweth his own horn, for whoso bloweth not his own horn, the same shall not be blowed.—Likewise, whoso bloweth his own horn, the same shall be blowed with a vengeance.

☞ One of the deacons of a certain church asked the bishop if he usually kissed the bride at weddings. "Always," was the reply. "And how do you manage when the happy pair are negroes?" was the next question. "In all such cases," replied the bishop, "the duty of kissing is appointed to the deacons."

☞ A friend asked a Dutchman what kind of a Winter he thought we should have. The Dutchman drawing himself up with an air of philosophical equanimity, and an oracular cast of the eye, said: "I think she will be werry cold dis Winter or werry hot—one of dem both."

LOCAL ITEMS.

IMPORTANT TO SPORTSMEN.—According to a law passed at the late session of the Legislature, for the preservation of game, the season for trapping, shooting, or destroying in any way, pheasants, patridges, woodcocks or rabits, closed on the first inst. The following sections refer to the subject;—

SECTION 2. That from and after the passage of this act, no person shall shoot, kill, or otherwise destroy any pheasant between the first day of January and first day of September, or any woodcock between the first day of January and the fourth of July, or any patridge or rabbit between the first day of January and the first day of October, in the present year, and in each and every year thereafter, under the penalty of five dollars for each and every offence.

SECTION 3. That no person shall buy, or cause to be bought, or carry out of this State, for the purpose of supplying any private or public house or market, any pheasant, partridge, woodcock or rabbit, unless the same shall have been shot or taken in the proper season, as provided for in this act, under a penalty of five dollars for each and every offence.

Thus it will be seen that a fine of five dollars can be collected for every violation of the law. The same law further provides that the possession of any of the game and birds mentioned, shot or otherwise destroyed out of season, shall be prima facia evidence to convict.

We hope we may not be called upon to record any violations of this law, which is certainly a commendable one, and we hope that no person who violates it may be permitted to go unpunished.

ILL-MANNERS.—It is very ill mannered for young men (?) to congregate in the church vestibules to stare at the ladies as they issue from the building. We might go a step further and say it was positively wicked, inasmuch as it is to be supposed that the thoughts of the ladies are far away from sublunary things on such occasions, and it is highly improper to distract their attention by thrusting upon their view objects which are neither useful nor ornamental. It is ill mannered to stare at the ladies anywhere, especially if it is done in the Tappertit style of "eyeing them over"—when it is positively cruel. No young lady of ordinary nerves can possibly survive many consecutive attacks of this sort, and as no young gentleman can know to a certainty how many times his victim may have endured the same terrible ordeal in the course of the day, he should be very cautious how he indulges his propensity to be killing. A very cross-grained old gentleman, who carefully shaves himself every day, says that lady-killers are becoming thicker than blackberries, and that fool-killers have all retired from business or removed from town.

SHOCKING RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A brakesman on one of the Pennsylvania Railroad freight trains, named James Clark, was severely injured, recently, near the South Fork, above Johnstown. He was standing at the time between two of the cars, with his hand upon the brake, and leaning over to get a view of the road in front, his head came in contact with a switch fan which hand by some means become bent so as to extend beyond its proper limits, knocking him from the cars, and one of his arms falling upon the track, the balance of the train passed over it, crushing it from the hand to the elbow. The Injured man was taken to Conemaugh station, and Dr. Lowman summoned, who amputated the arm. A portion of the brain protruded from the wound in the head, and it was feared that inflamation would supervene. This ultimately occured in a few days afterward and terminated the injured man's existence.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.—EMIGRATION STATISTICS.—The following is a statement of the number of emigrants, with the amount of baggage, that have passed over the Pennsylvania Railroad for each month during 1858:

	No. of Emigrants.	Its extra Baggage.
January,	842	12,945
February,	764	18,861
March,	1696	58,662
April,	3280	80,000
May,	2250	61,412
June,	1468	51,439
July,	1800	40,500
August,	1402	70,160
September,	1472	45,076
October,	1389	25 200
November,	768	14,820
December,	628	9,400
	17,701	488,395

This number is nearly equal to the travel of 1857, notwithstanding the great decrease in the number of emigrants coming to Philad'a, as well as New York. In the latter port there has been falling off of about one half.

NEW ARRANGEMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.—On the 1st inst., the entire line of the Penna. Rail Road was placed under the care of one Resident Engineer, who will be assisted by three Assistant Resident Engineers. W. H. Wilson, Esq., who has occupied the position of Resident Engineer on the Philadelphia Division of the Pennsylvania Rail Road since the purchase of the Columbia Rail Road, has been appointed Resident Engineer. His office will be at this place. J. Clemson Sharpless, Esq., will be located at West Philadelphia, as Assistant Engineer on the Philadelphia Division; J. Hayes Linville, at this place, as Assistant Engineer of the Middle Division; and John S. Love, Esq., at Pittsburgh, as Assistant Engineer on the Western Division.

SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR.—Governor Packer has signed the bill passed at the close of the last session, granting to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the right of way to construct a railroad from Harrisburg to Dauphin. The bill was signed by the Governor on Tuesday of last week, and returned to the Legislature on the day following. This bill had a hard struggle to get through the Legislature of 1858, owing to violent opposition from other Railroads interested, and was among the last acts of the session.

THANKS.—Our Carriers would return their sincere thanks to the patrons of the Tribune, and all others who contributed to the increase of their "pile," for the handsome manner in which they were compensated by them, on New Year's Day, and hope that each return of that day may find them all with well-filled purses.

EXCITEMENTS.—We have had many causes of excitement lately, in our town, some of which have threatened, for a time, to overthrow the wonted equilibrium of our most stable citizens and plunge us into a vortex of civil discord, and not the least among the many causes of commotion was the arrival of Fettinger's stock of goods for the Holidays But this excitement was not merely for the moment. By continually adding to his already varied and unsurpassed stock, he is creating a constant panic, which is attracting increased crowds to his Emporium, No. 1, Altoona House. Every body now goes to Fettingers,—old and young—big and little—rich and poor—black and white—and Heenan intends to stop at the Emporium to get the Clipper, or some other sporting paper, the next time he passes this way. All the popular papers, books, &c., together with every variety of stationary and confectionaries, segars, tobacco and other articles "too tedious to enumerate," may be had at Fettinger's.

COMPLIMENTARY.—WHEREAS, Washington Camp, No. 31, of the Order of Junior Sons of America, having made arrangements with MRS. HUFF, of White Hall Hotel, Altoona, to get up a supper for the members of the Camp, on Christmas eve, and as the said supper was prepared at the time specified, and in the best style, said Camp unanimously adopted the following:—

Resolved, That the thanks of the members of Washington Camp, No. 31, J. S. of A., be hereby tendered to the worthy hostess of White Hall Hotel, Altoona, for the grand style in which she served up the supper ordered on Christmas eve; and that we would recommend her to all parties who may wish a supper got up in style and on short notice, as a suitable person to employ.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the Altoona TRIBUNE.

J. W. CLABAUGH,
W. J. SMITH,
T. E. CAMPBELL, } Committee.

SERENADE.—On New Years morn, between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock, our ears were greeted with the sweet strains of melodious music, which drove slumber from our eyelids and causes us to search for its origin. Our search revealed the fact that the Altoona Brass Band, (by the way one of the best bands in the State and composed of as clever fellows as ever filled a set of instruments) had taken possession of the side-walk in front of our residence, and were really serenading us. We duly appreciated the compliment, and were only sorry that the lateness of the hour prevented us from treating them in the manner we should like to have done.—Should they call again they may expect a better reception, as none more richly deserve it.

NEW YEARS PRESENT.—We would hereby tender our sincere thanks to Mrs. John Allison, of this place, for the handsome cakes sent in to this office, on New Years morning. Nothing could be more encouraging to us than to know that we have a place in the memory of those whom we highly esteem, and who, while they are enjoying the luxuries which fortune has placed within their reach, desire that their less fortunate neighbors should share the same.—Again we tender the doner our thanks and hope that each returning New Year's day may find her store so large that she shall be able to repeat the compliment to the "poor printer," and extend it to other unfortunate beings.

CHANGE.—Cabel Guyer, Esq., has been appointed agent of the Penn'a. Rail Road Company, at Tyrone station, in room of Jacob Burley, Esq., resigned.

THE PANIC—MORE FAILURES.—The panic in New York seems to be on the increase. In this city everything goes on smoothly, and the only failures we have heard of were the failures to furnish good fits made by some inferior clothing establishments. There is no such difficulty to be encountered by those who patronize the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut street, above sixth. Gentlemen and Youths never fail to procure capital fits at this popular establishment.

Ho! for the Arctic Region!

If any of the Ladies are dissatisfied with the weather we are having, and desire visiting the Arctic Region, we would recommend them to call on C. J. MANN and replenish their wardrobe from his beautiful stock of which he is selling off CHEAP, being determined to dispose of them while the snow is screeching.

CLOAKS, CAPES AND SHAWLS,

January 13th, 1859.

THE HALL OF FASHION is still open, and the Proprietor, in returning thanks to his numerous customers for their liberal patronage bestowed on him since his commencement, here desires to say (without fear of contradiction) that he is prepared to offer for their inspection the best assortment of handsome DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, WHITE GOODS, &c., &c., that can be found in Altoona.

Respectfully, &c., C. J. MANN.

Blair County Teachers Association.

ALTOONA, Dec. 28th, 1858.

The Teachers of the Blair County Association met in Altoona, on the 27th inst, at 11 o'clock A. M. The President, Prof. Jno. Miller, called the Association to order. On motion of Mr. Dean, County Supt., Resolved:—That a Committee of seven be appointed to prepare business for the Association. The Chair appointed, Miss Philenda Davis, Miss Tyler and Johnson. Adjourned, Met at 1.30 P. M. As per report of Committee, the subject of Mental and Written Arithmetic, was taken up and discussed, by Miss Hart, Miss Gwin, Messrs. Dean, Williams, Domer, and Prof. Miller. Orthography was next discussed, by Messrs. Dean, Miller, and McCartney, Miss Gwin, Miss Galbraith, Miss McCrum, Miss McCord, and others. Adjourned. Met at 6.30 P. M. Mr. Rutherford in the chair. A lecture by Mr. Dean, in which he alluded to the course that should be pursued by teachers, in order to elevate the profession of teaching. It was listened to with marked attention. The subject of school-books, was next discussed. The next subject was, on motion of Miss Tyler—the best method of securing a regular attendance at School. This was well discussed. Adjourned. Met on the 28th at 9 A. M. Mr. Rutherford in the chair On motion of Mr. Williams, the Teachers were requested to report the condition of their respective schools. The Teachers reported verbally. On motion of Miss Hart, Resolved, That Physiology should be taught in our Common Schools; and that the Teachers and Directors make an unceasing effort, to have it introduced. The subject was very ably elucidated by Miss Hart. Resolution adopted. Adjourned Met at 1.30 P. M. Prof. Miller in the chair. The subjects discussed were, 1st. Should whispering in school be totally prohibited? 2nd. Should public Examinations and Exhibitions be held? On motion of Miss Hart, a committee of five was appointed, to draft honorary resolutions. Messrs. Rutherford, Kinsloe, Satterfield, Miss McCrum and Miss McCormick, were appointed. On motion, Resolved, That the President fix the time and place, of holding the next meeting of the Association. On motion adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

J. HARTZELL, Sec'y.

The resolutions drafted by the committee appointed at the Association, for that purpose, are as follows:—1st. Resolved, That the Teachers of this Association tender their thanks to the citizens of Altoona, for the hospitality extended to them, during the session of the Association. 2nd. Resolved, That the Teachers of this Association, highly appreciate the benefits received from this meeting of the Association, and the encouragement given by the Board of Directors of Altoona.

☞ Our lady friend, at Yellow Springs, will accept our thanks for the Address she furnished our Carrier's, although it was not accepted, the one published on our outside taking the preference. Her's was a creditable effort, better than three-fourth's of those published this year, in different papers, and would have been accepted had not the one referred to arrived in time.

ANOTHER SUPPER.—The ladies connected with the Methodist Church, in this place, are now making arrangements to get up a supper, for the benefit of the church, to be given on the evening of the 22d of February. We can not say much about it at present, but will notice it more particularly when the arrangements are perfected.

A. M. L. & R. R. A. ELECTION.—On Saturday evening, January 1st, the members of the Altoona Mechanics' Library and Reading Room Association met at their room and elected the following officers for the ensting year:

President—Thos. P. Sargent.
V. President—Rev. A. B. Clark.
Secretary—B. F. Custer.
Treasurer—D. T. Caldwell.
Librarian—Chas. V. B. Kennedy.
Directors—Chas. R. McCrea, C. J. Mann, Ambrose Ward, A. C. Vauclain, E. B. McCrum, Andrew Carnegie, J. E. Burchiuell.
Auditors—B. F. Custer, J. H. Dysart, Andrew Carnegie.

DON'T USE MUCH MEDICINE.—There are few persons in this country who are not continually pouring in some kind of medicine, which is often of a powerful nature. Caution in diet, and the proper care in selecting wearing apparel, will often do away with its necessity. If you do fall sick apply to a good physician. If you have a cough or cold, do not neglect it, you can cure it by a few doses of DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL COUGH SYRUP, prepared by that gentleman, at his great medicine establishment, No. 140 Wood street, Pittsburgh, Pa. It is now put up in bottles, at 50 cents and $1 each, and can be had in this place at G. W. Kessler's.

From the Wheeling TIMES and GAZETTE.

☞ Though it may seem strange to many who have not seen it, yet there is no doubt of the fact, that Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative will change grey hair to its original color, and cause it to grow on heads entirely bald, and by a few applications keep it from falling off. There was a time when persons who had lost their hair were compelled to wear wigs or go bald, but since the advent of Prof. Wood's Tonic, there is no longer any necessity of wigs or grey hairs. See advertisement in another column.

NEW FIRM.—By reference to an advertisement in another column, it will be seen that J. Wells Collins has disposed of his business (butchering) in this place, to Messrs. Ewing & Co. The new firm comes well recommended and we have no doubt will do justice and give satisfaction to all the old customers of the well known market house which they will occupy. See their card.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.—On the first inst., a brakesman on the mountain Division, named Edward Mills, had one of his arms severely crushed between the bumpers of two freight cars which he was engaged in coupling in the yard at this place. He received prompt medical attention and is now doing as well as the nature of his wound will admit.

IMPROVEMENT.—We learn that a new iron bridge will soon be erected by the Penn'a. Rail Road Company, across the canal at Johnstown, to take the place of the wooden one over which the road now passes. We hope soon to see every wooden bridge removed from the line of the road and the more safe and durable iron structures in their places.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dalley's Magical Pain Extractor.

In all diseases inflammation more or less predominates—now to allay inflammation strikes at the root of disease—hence an immediate cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR, and nothing else, will allay inflammation at once, and make a certain cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR will cure the following among a great catalogue of diseases: Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Chafes, Sore Nipples, Corns, Bunions, Bruises, Sprains, Bites, Poison, Chilblains, Biles, Scrofula, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Felons, Ear Ache, Piles, Sore Eyes, Gout, Swellings, Rheumatism, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Baldness, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Barbers' Itch, Small Pox, Measles, Rash, &c., &c.

To some it may appear incredulous that so many diseases should be reached by one article; such an idea will vanish when reflection points to the fact, that the salve is a combination of ingredients, each and every one applying a perfect antidote to its apposite disorder.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR In its effects is magical, because the time is so short between disease and a permanent cure; and it is an extractor, as it draws all disease out of the affected part, leaving nature as perfect as before the injury. It is scarcely necessary to say that no house, work-shop, or manufactory should be one moment without it.

No Pain Extractor is genuine unless the box has upon it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, Manufacturer.

Sold by G. W. Kessler, Altoona; George A. Jacobs, Hollidaysburg; and by all the Druggists and patent medicine dealers throughout the United States and Canada.

MORE THAN 500,000 BOTTLES SOLD IN THE
NEW ENGLAND STATES
IN ONE YEAR.

The Restorative of Prof. O. J. Wood for Restoring hair perfectly and permanently, has never yet had a rival, volume after volume might be given from all parts of the world and from the most intelligent to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read the circular and you cannot doubt; read also the following.

☞ The Hair.—People have for centuries been afflicted with bald heads and the only remedy, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood these articles are being fast dispensed with, but a great many persons still patronise them, because they have been so often imposed upon by Hair Tonics of different kinds. To all such persons we earnestly make the request, that they will try once again, for in Wood's Restorative there is no such thing as fail. We know of a lady who was bald, who used the article a short time, and her head is now covered completely with the tiniest and most beautiful curls imaginable. We know of numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which it restored in greater perfection than it ever had been before.

It is also without doubt one of the best articles for keeping the hair in good condition, making it soft and glossy, removing dandruff, and has proved itself the greatest enemy to all the ills that hair is heir to.

It is the duty of every one to improve their personal appearance though some may differ in regard to the ways of doing it; but every one will admit that a beautiful head of hair, either in man or woman, is an object much to be desired, and there are no means that should be left untried to obtain such a consideration.—Woman's Advocate, Philadelphia.

Coshocton, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1858.

O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: As I have been engaged in selling your Hair Restorative the last season for one of your local agents (R. M. Hackinson,) and having experienced the beneficial effects of it myself, I would like to obtain an agency for the State of Ohio or some State in the West, should you wish to make such an arrangement, as I am convinced there is nothing equal to it in the United States, for restoring the hair. I have been engaged in the Drug business for several years, and have sold various preparations for the hair, but have found nothing that restores the secretive organs or invigorates the scalp as well as yours, being fully convinced that your restorative is what you represent it to be, I would like to engage in the sale of it, for I am satisfied it must sell. Yours truly,

S. T. STOCKMAN.

Wayland, Mass., Feb. 5, 1857.

PROF. O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: Having realized the good effects of your Hair Restorative, I wish to state, that finding my hair growing thin, as well as gray, I was induced from what I read and heard, to try the article prepared by you, to promote its growth and change its color as it was in youth, both of which it has effected completely. In the operation I have used nearly three bottles.

Yours &c., JAMES P. FRANCIS.

BOERHAVE'S
HOLLAND BITTERS

THE CELEBRATED HOLLAND REMEDY FOR DYSPEPSIA,
DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS,
LIVER COMPLAINT,
WEAKNESS OF ANY KIND
FEVER AND AGUE,
And the various affections consequent upon a disordered
STOMACH OR LIVER.

Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, Costiveness, Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave: Because of its great success in the most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medical virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new breath and vigor in the system.

CAUTION.—The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all those imitations.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR
PREPARED BY DR. ASNFORD,
COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS,

is one of the best Purgative and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The LIVER is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it is out of order, it more or less performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, and the whole bowels system suffers in consequence of the Liver—having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy where with to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with LIVER COMPLAINT, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle. In cases requiring PURGING, it will digest well, PURIFYING THE BLOOD, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

BILIOUS ATTACKS are CURE, AND, WHAT IS BETTER, PREVENTED, by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures COSTIVENESS.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

One bottle taken for a spoonful will always relieve SICK HEADACHE.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for CHOLERA MORBUS, and a preventive of CHOLERA.

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for JAUNDICE removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes the food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer or Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by WORMS in children; there is no remedy in the world, as it never fails.

A few bottles cures Dropsy by exciting the absorbents to eject their morbid matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

We take pleasure in recommending the medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

☞ Mix Water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR
IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working curos, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a DISEASED LIVER.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALE. For Inflammatory Diseases only.

NEW MEDICAL SALE! NEW MEDICAL SALT!

IT IS NOT A CURE-ALL.

For Inflammatory Disease Only!

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALE, instead of being a remedy for all ills, has control over but one ill, has but one aim, and accomplishes but one thing, to wit: SUBDUE INFLAMMATORY DISEASE, whatever be its form or locality, whether in the head, throat, abdomen, extremities or skin.

The peculiar excellence of the NEW MEDICAL SALE is, that without the useless loss of blood and strength, it effectually cures INFLAMMATORY DISEASES (no other) by producing an equilibrium of all the fluids in the body, the want of which is the sole cause of inflammation.

INFLAMED, TIRED NERVES!! The following forms which the unbalanced fluids assume, and many not here mentioned, that have more or less fever, are as easily subdued by the NEW MEDICAL SALE, as fire is extinguished by water, to wit: Brain Fever, Headache, Rush of Blood to the Head and Heart, Pits, Inflamed Eyes, Ears and Nose, Quinsy, Neuralgia, Spinal Affections, Erysipelas, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Asthma, Inflamed Lungs and Liver, Heartburn, Coughs, Dyspepsia, Venereal Diseases, Rheumatism, Gout, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all Itching and other cutaneous eruptions.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALE cures, like the vaccine matter, an extraordinary influence on the veins and arteries, resulting in a gradual decline of inflammation as indicated by the pulse, which soon resumes its natural state, as the heat, pain and fever disappear.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALE does just what it claims to do—no more, no less—equalizes the fluids, by removing from the system all arterial and venous obstructions. Description circulars may be obtained from any Druggist who has this valuable medicine for sale.

HOWARD ASSOCIATION, PHILADELPHIA.

A Benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual Diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give medical advice gratis, to all who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.,) and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to furnish medicine free of charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The directors of the Association, in their Annual Report upon the treatment of Sexual Diseases, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of the Consulting Surgeon in the cure of Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Gun orrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism or Self-abuse, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

The Directors, on a review of the past, feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important and much despised cause.

An admirable Report on Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation, or Self-abuse, and other abuses of the sexual organs, by the Consulting Surgeon, will be sent by mail (in a sealed envelope), FREE OF CHARGE, on receipt of TWO STAMPS for postage. Other Reports and Treatise on the nature and treatment of Sexual diseases, &c., are constantly being published for gratuitous distribution, and will be sent to the afflicted. Some of the new remedies and methods of treatment discovered during the last year, are of great value.

Address, for Report or Treatment, &c. GEORGE S. CALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 S. Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

HOME TESTIMONY.

[From the Lewistown Aurora.]

I have been afflicted for ten years with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have received more benefit from Du Vall's Galvanic Oil than any other medicine I ever used. ALEX. McKEE.

Oliver township, Mifflin county, Pa.

This is to certify that I used Du Vall's Galvanic Oil in my family in some of the diseases for which it is recommended and found to act almost spontaneously. I recommend it to all who suffer from pain. A. M. INGRAM.

Sept. 2, '58—1y. Decatur township, Mifflin co., Pa.

A CARD.—Hear what Mrs. Vaughn of Duncansville says:—I have used the Galvanic Oil prepared by J. D. Stoneroad, Lewistown, Pa., for a very painful disease myself and can recommend it to others, and in every case found it to be one of the very best medicines for sore and painful diseases. Relieves all pain in a few minutes. Every family should have it in the house.

JUST OPENED!

THE MODEL IN BLAST!

THE UNDERSIGNED WOULD announce that they have removed to their new MODEL STORE, corner of Annie and Virginia Streets, and are now opening the largest and most Stock of

DRY GOODS,

Boots & Shoes, Carpets, Notions, &c.,

Ever exhibited in this town. Having turned our attention entirely to the above named Goods, we will be enabled to keep a better stock of the Goods mentioned than those who keep on many varieties; and as we will not be compelled to sell Dry Goods, &c., at a high profit to make up for loss on other goods, we hope to be able to dispose of them at prices that will astonish the natives.

FOR THE LADIES,

We have Prints, Delaines, Ginghams, Cashmeres, and all-wool Plaids, Debeges, Coburgs, Alpacas, Frock Merinos, Wool Delaines, Silk Foulards, Poil Deckevres, Satin Striped Poplins, Black and Fancy Silks, Shapls in great variety; also, Hosiery and Gloves of all kinds, White Goods, &c.

OUR STOCK OF CARPETS is large and very cheap—wool chain as low as 37½ cents. In the line of DOMESTICS we think cannot be beat in quality, quality or price. Persons who wish to purchase their money will do well to give us a call and examine our stock and prices, and we hope to be able to convince them that the MODEL is the place to buy goods. J. & J. NEW GROCERY FEED AID PROVISION STORE.

The subscriber would respectfully inform the citizens of Altoona and vicinity that he has opened a store in the above kind, near the corner of Adaline and Juniata streets, East Altoona, where he will keep constantly on hand a full supply of everything in his line. He will are all fresh and will be sold at prices as low as those of any other establishment in town. His stock provisions, consisting of Flour, Hams, Shoulders, Sis, &c.

will be sold a little cheaper than they can be bought any where else. His Flour is obtained from three mills in the Western part of the State, and is warranted to be what it is represented.

All kinds of Feed for horses, cows and hogs always on hand.

I intend to keep such an assortment that all at all times to be able to supply my customers with never they may need, and I intend also to sell at prices which will make it a saving to those who patronize me.

MR. DELL.

POSITIVE INFORMATION—THE undersigned having perfected their Stock, now offer to the public the LARGEST LOT OF GROCERIES ever presented in the town of Altoona.

Our stock in publishing this card is to let the following facts:

1st. The recent hard times have very much forced the price of Groceries in the city, especially to buyers.

2d. We bought these Groceries in large many of them from first hands.

3d. We bought them entirely for cash.

4th. We sell for ready pay.

5th. We keep our stock full by weekly receipts.

6th. We have determined to keep up the credit of our house.

7th. We sell more GROCERIES than any store in Blair county, at less per cent.

8th. We sell cheaper than any other store in county.

A continuation of patronage is respectfully solicited.

Altoona, June 10, 1858. RICHARD CHAIN.

BY ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—Did you hear the news from Europe? If you have not, we will tell you what it is. It is that HENRY TUCK has just returned from the Eastern cities with a large supply of consisting of all styles and qualities of Over Coats, Dress Coats, Vests, Pants, Hats and Shirts, and every kept in an establishment of the kind, all of which he offers at unprecedentedly low prices for cash. Having replenished his stock at cash prices, he is thereby enabled to sell very low.

READY-MADE CLOTHING

He invites all those in want of anything in his line to give him a call, feeling sure that he will be able to give satisfaction. HENRY TUCK.

GREAT DISCOVERY OF THE AGE IMPORTANT TO TOBACCO CHEWERS.

DR. GUSTAV LINNARD'S TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES, the great Substitute for Tobacco.

It is a well known and incontrovertable fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most severe to which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain narcotic and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood damage the functions and operations of the Heart, causing many to suppose that organ to be seriously diseased.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS

TOBACCO affects also the entire nervous system, manifesting itself—as all who have ever used the noxious weed will bear testimony—in Lassitude, Nervous Irritability, Weak Stomach, Dyspepsia, and many other disorders of a similar character.

THE TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES

Are designed to counteract these baneful influences, and have proved completely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in their nature they exert a beneficial effect upon the entire system, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, completely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon abstaining from the use of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the stomach, invigorate the whole system.

Persons who are irreparably undermining their constitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and unpleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing.

Three Troches of Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 Cents per Box. A liberal discount to the Trade.

For sale by the undersigned to whom all orders should be addressed.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT!—McCORMICK'S NEW GOODS HAVE ARRIVED AND ARE NOW BEING OPENED FOR INSPECTION AND SALE.

"Halloo, neighbor, I've been on the ground again. Perhaps you recollect when I, last year, asked you to hold my house a moment and tell me where the CHEAP STORE was. But it is dif-ferent now. It reminds me a little of the campaign of 1840, when Gen. Harrison was elected President. You have only to go with the crowd and you will have no difficulty in finding McCORMICK'S STORE. From the excitement down the valley, and the quantity of goods I see carried away, they must be selling off very rapidly and very cheap."

"You are right, my friend; I would say to you, sir, go ahead and your anticipations will be fully realized. He has a very large and well selected assortment of Goods. He'll sell you dress for fifty cents and give the trimmings into the bargain, I'm told, and all other goods in proportion."
